A Two of the warders came running to the jewel room, but Blood fired at the first of them, and the second was so confused that he left the thieves pass without trying to stop them. So they were able to get out of the Tower.

B The man was dressed like a clergyman and said that the woman who accompanied him was his wife. But, in fact, he was an English officer, called Colonel Blood, who wanted to steal the King's treasure, and the woman had promised to help him.

C In the year 1671 a man and a woman knocked at the gates of the Tower of London and asked Mr Edwards, the jewel keeper, to show them the Crown Jewels which were kept there.

D Ever since that time the King's Crown Jewels, which were always looked after very carefully, have been guarded even more strictly. Up to the present day, the Tower is still watched over by warders and yeomen of the guard, called Beefeaters, who wear the traditional costumes.

E When they entered the jewel room, they threw a cloak over Mr Edward's head, forced a gag into his mouth and so made him helpless in a moment. Blood slipped the crown under his cloak.
